Note to Students and their Advisers:

Special reading courses may be established only with individual members of the department. They must satisfy the following conditions: (1) a prospectus describing the nature of the program and the readings to be covered must be approved by both the instructor and the director of undergraduate studies; (2) the student must meet regularly with the instructor for an average of at least two hours per week; (3) the course must include a term essay, several short essays, or a final examination; (4) the topic and/or content must not be substantially encompassed by an existing undergraduate or graduate course. A student may normally take only three reading courses; beyond that number, special permission from the director of undergraduate studies is required.

Student:

I have attached to this form a prospectus that describes my research topic and includes a provisional reading list.

Adviser:

I have approved this student's topic/plan of study and I agree to serve as the principal adviser. In addition, I have discussed or will discuss with the student a schedule of advisory meetings and preliminary drafts.

All coursework for PLSC 471 must be submitted by December 20, 2023.
